Kids Are Our Business!

Campbell County Extension Service Offers Popular Programs for Young People

The public is invited to attend the 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale at the Alexandria Fair Saturday, September 3 at 6 pm. About 70 steers, lambs and hogs will be auctioned this year. Youth use the proceeds from the sale to help with educational expenses as well as fund their project for the coming year.

Sixty-six 4-H'ers participated in the 4-H Fashion Show this year, including (from left): Jessica Fischesser, Becca Groeschen, Emily Fischer, Christine Fischer.

4-H Animal Science Projects

The life skills young people learn from the 4-H livestock programs are invaluable and benefit them throughout their lives. That is why animals and 4-H'ers make a natural combination. Responsibility is gained from raising and caring for animals. Youth also learn about animal production, health care, judging and selection, marketing, and explore careers in animal science. Campbell County 4-H'ers are especially active in the 4-H Livestock and Horse Projects. Fairs and shows as well as camps offer great learning opportunities. Often these projects involve the whole family so they can learn and have fun together.

4-H Sewing Still Popular

The feeling of mastering a skill and having a positive relationship with a caring adult are two important aspects of the 4-H sewing projects. Sixty-six 4-H'ers participated in the 4-H Fashion Show this year. The 4-H'ers learned their skills from their sewing leaders or their parents. The sewing projects ranged from backpack purses to pillow cases to warm up suits to period costumes.

Junior Master Gardener Program

Have you seen young children with green thumbs in Campbell County this summer? There are several children participating in gardening programs this year who are learning about plants — how they work, how we use them, when to plant and harvest and using them in our homes. Preschoolers are learning about insects, vegetables and even looking for fairies in the garden! The Junior Master Gardener Program (children ages 8-12 years old) participants planted cucumbers and are anticipating making pickles with their harvest. These Level II program participants (the children were all involved last year) became certified Junior Master Gardeners by completing 88 group and individual projects and are following up this year with take-home projects and community service activities.

Campbell County Helps Teens Drive Safer

Campbell County Extension is doing its part to help reduce the number of teen vehicle accidents through a hands-on educational program called "Teens on Wheels."

Teens on Wheels provides young people the opportunity to learn and adopt safe driving skills.

Although teens ages fifteen to nineteen are the target audience, parents are also required to attend. The teen/parent involvement is significant because parents are taught that the most effective way to teach their teens is by being good examples themselves.

Fifty-seven teens and 62 parents who participated in the "Teens on Wheels" program last September observed a rollover simulator (photo right), maneuvered an obstacle course, took part in mastering defensive driving skills, visited a safety fair and participated in a mock trial.

Farmers' Market

The Campbell County Farmers' Markets offer home-grown produce, annual and perennial flowers and vegetable transplants, as well as products such as jams, jellies, honey, cut flowers and arts/crafts.

The Alexandria market is located at the Southern Lanes Sports Complex at 7634 Alexandria Pike in Alexandria. The Alexandria Farmers' market will conduct sales on Fridays from 3-6 pm through October 28. The Highland Heights market is located at the Senior Citizens Activity Center parking lot.

This market runs through October 25 on Tuesdays from 3-6 pm. The Newport market is located at 709 Monmouth Street (next to Pepper Pod Restaurant). Produce is available on Saturdays through October 29 from 9 am to noon.

Please stop by the Campbell County Farmers' markets and support the farmers who work hard to provide high quality fruits and vegetables to the local community.

Speedy Suppers

It is estimated that 56% of Americans eat at least three dinners per week that are not prepared at home and 40% eat at least four or more not prepared at home. With this increased number of families eating meals outside the home, the Campbell County Extension Service offered several classes on Speedy Suppers. This class was taught throughout Campbell County at various locations with a total of 60 participants. Information taught included recipes with four or less ingredients, portion control/serving sizes, dietary guidelines and importance of family mealtime.

Through written evaluations and personal testimonials, participants reported: 100% learned something new about healthful eating; 100% learned something new about preparing dinner in a hurry; 87% planned to make dietary changes as a result of this program; and 100% understood correct serving sizes after the program compared to only 45% before the program. One participant summed up the reason for attending this program — “The recipes seem easy and healthy — a great way to good living.”

Cooperative Extension Service Helps Train New Certified Arborists

The Northern Kentucky Urban and Community Forestry Council identified a need for certified arborists in Northern Kentucky. The International Society of Arboriculture (ISA) program tests and certifies an individual's knowledge and standard of practice within the tree care profession. The urban forestry council collaborated with the three Northern Kentucky Cooperative Extension Services (Campbell, Boone and Kenton Counties) to provide scholarships and educational training to tree care workers to become ISA Certified Arborists. The University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service provided 16 hours of training for the scholarship recipients and 70 local tree care professionals. Seven scholarship recipients as well as two Extension agents in Campbell and Boone Counties became ISA Certified Arborists. These individuals will improve the standard of practice within the tree care profession. Additionally, they will each provide 25 hours of volunteer service to the community through the urban forestry council and the Cooperative Extension Service.

Cooperative Extension Service Helps People Improve the Environment

In the spring of 2005, the Cooperative Extension Service helped people improve the environment by sponsoring and teaching tree and wildflower planting programs and bluebird house construction workshops. Campbell County elementary students, home school students, boy scouts and master gardeners participated in the programs. Overall, 255 trees and 125 wildflowers were planted and 250 bluebird houses were made and erected in Campbell County.

Pasture Improvement Program

The Campbell County Pasture Improvement Program was developed to address the need to improve pasture management in Campbell County. A nine-hour lecture program called Graze Northern KY reached 105 individuals with pasture management information. Hands-on demonstration on using no-till drills, electric fencing options and water development were also a part of this program. Changes made by Campbell County farmers who participated in these programs included: 18 pasture management plans were developed, 11 farmers renovated pastures, seven stockpiled fescue, nine made fencing improvements which led to a 50% reduction in pasture size, four expanded water systems, and the number of producers using rotational grazing system went from 54% to 82%.

Equine Management Series

As the number of horse owners increases in Campbell County, so has the need for educational programs. To address these needs, a series of “Horse Management” programs was developed by the Extension Service. This series of programs provided horse owners with the information that they needed to make sound management decisions in the areas of nutrition, hay selection, pasture management, health care, breeding, hoof care and feeding. Approximately 85 individuals participated in this equine series. Forty individuals participated in an equine tour which included stops at two thoroughbred farms and Hagyard's Equine Medical Center in Georgetown, KY. Eighty people participated in an equine field day, held in Campbell County at the Curry and Gehner horse farms, which showcased pasture renovation, rotational grazing, water development, waste management/composting and mud control using filter fabric.

News You Can Use

Healthy Choices

Beginning in August, Campbell County Food Service will offer chef salad for lunch at all schools as an alternative choice to the entrée item. Students will also have a wide selection of fresh fruits, vegetables and 100% fruit drinks. Look for your child's school lunch menu on the district website or in the school newsletters. Lunch and breakfast prices for the 05-06 school year are as follows: Breakfast for Kindergarten -Grade 12: $1 Lunch for Kindergarten -Grade 5: $1.75 Lunch for Grades 6 -12: $2

Don't Miss the Bus!

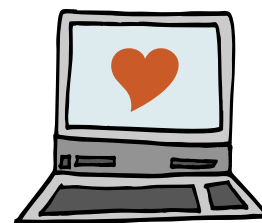

- Bus transportation is only available within your school attendance areas.
- Be at the bus stop five minutes prior to your scheduled pickup time. Special arrangements made with the regular driver are not carried over to a sub driver.
- The bus driver must make eye contact with the parent/guardian before a kindergarten or preschool child may exit the bus. If no one is at home the child will be returned to his or her school.
- Busing will be provided to and from one address only. We cannot accommodate different daily schedules. If your child needs to be dropped off at a different location, a note must be sent to the school and the student will receive a Temporary Transportation Pass. No child will be dropped off at a different location without this pass.

- Any items left on the bus will remain on the bus. Ask the bus driver if he/she found the lost item. There is no lost and found at the transportation department.
- In the event of an accident, the bus driver is required to give the responding police officer the student's name, address, birthdate and phone number. With this in mind, please make sure your child's information is updated.

Thank a Teacher With a Free E-card

Your children may want to send free online cards to their teachers from this past school year, or the current school year. Hallmark (www.hallmark.com) has created a series of new e-cards that make it easy to send a teacher a note of thanks through a partnership with the nonprofit organization TeachersCount (www.teacherscount.org). Hallmark also offers a list of Ten Ways to Thank a Teacher.

District Receives Silver Award

Sanitation District No. 1's Dry Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant was recently recognized by the National Association for Clean Water Agencies (NACWA) for outstanding wastewater treatment performance. This year, the District was recognized with a Silver Award as part of NACWA's Peak Performance Awards program. This program recognizes NACWA member agencies for excellence in wastewater treatment as measured by their compliance with their National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System permits.

The Dry Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant entered service in 1979 and currently serves a majority of residents in Boone, Campbell and Kenton Counties. This 24-hour operation cleanses over 35 million gallons of wastewater every day before returning it to the Ohio River. The Dry Creek Plant has received several Peak Performance Awards in the past and continues to strive to meet these high performance standards.

In addition, SD1 has recently received two national awards for their storm water education programs. In April, SD1 was honored with EPA's Children's Environmental Health Recognition Award for the creation of the Water Quality Curriculum and Public Service Park Field Trips. In May, SD1 received NACWA's 2005 National Environmental Achievement Award in Public Information and Education. This award also recognizes the educational outreach efforts offered through Public Service Park Field Trips. This is the second consecutive year that the District has received this national recognition for its community education programs.

Construction Delays Lead to Effective Solution

Construction of the Eastern Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant, located off State Route 10, began in the fall of 2004.

A delay in construction of the pipeline to carry treated water from the Eastern Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant in Campbell County has caused officials from Sanitation District No. 1 to consider other alternatives. Difficulty in securing easements, erosion along the banks of the Ohio River, and regulatory obligations could threaten a two to five year delay in the completion of this much needed treatment facility.

Sewage flows at the existing Alexandria Wastewater Treatment Plant and in the collection systems throughout southern Campbell County are impacted during rain events. The sanitary sewer lines in this area are not designed to transport storm water, but during heavy rain, water enters the system through deteriorating pipes. This excess water causes bypassing and overflows throughout the system, which leads to a mixture of raw sewage and storm water entering area creeks and streams.

Engineers from SD1 recently met with officials from the Kentucky Division of Water and determined that with an additional investment in treatment technology, stricter water quality standards could be met, allowing the treated water from the new plant to be discharged into Brush Creek, a tributary of the Twelve Mile Creek. For nearly the same amount of initial projected costs to build the five-mile pipeline out to the Ohio River, advanced levels of treatment could be provided. This solution could keep the project on schedule and save ratepayers from increased costs due to the anticipated delays.

Volunteers Needed

Pull on your gloves, tie on your old tennis shoes, and load up the family to attend the sixth annual creek cleanup in Northern Kentucky. C.R.I.K. (Creek Restoration in Kentucky) will be held on Saturday, September 17 from 8 am-noon. C.R.I.K. targets one creek in each county that is in need of a clean sweep. This volunteer opportunity is coordinated by the Campbell County Jaycees to help protect Northern Kentucky's environment. For more information or to register for the event, call the CRIK Hotline at (859) 578-6745.

Election News

Although there are no elections in 2005, there will be a full slate of elections in 2006.

All county offices, state representatives, US representatives, circuit judges, commonwealth attorney office, district judges, city officials and school boards will be on the ballot.

Candidates can pick up filing papers for local elections in the clerk's office beginning in August 2005.

Filing papers cannot be filed until November 9, 2005 in the clerk's office. Signatures for filing cannot be obtained until November 9, 2005.

A potential candidate can file a letter of intent with the State Registry of Election of Finance if they intend to raise money for their campaign. A copy must be filed in the county clerk's office.

If you are thinking about running for public office and have any questions about the filing process, contact your county's election office for help. The number for the Campbell County Election Office is (859) 292-3885.

Campbell County Public Library

All Library Branches Now Open I-5 on Sundays

Now you can enjoy the Library seven days a week! All three branches of the Campbell County Public Library will open from 1-5 pm on Sundays beginning August 7.

"We want to serve the community in the best way we can. For a lot of people, the weekend is the most convenient time for them to visit the Library," said JC Morgan, director of the Campbell County Public Library. "Children working on school projects and patrons who are at their jobs during the week will find the new Sunday hours especially beneficial," he said.

The Library will have a reference librarian and circulation services available on Sundays. The Library offers public computers with Internet connections and Microsoft Office products. Patrons may check out movies, music CDs, software programs, audiobooks, and a vast selection of books for all ages.

Now you can visit the library everyday!

Show Us Your Card

September is National Library Card Sign-Up Month, and a time when libraries across the nation remind parents that a Library Card is the most important school supply of all! Studies show that children who use the Library and read regularly perform better in school, and they are more likely to continue to use libraries as sources for lifetime learning.

Area businesses throughout Northern Kentucky are supporting their public libraries by offering discounts to customers. Stop in any library to get a brochure identifying participating businesses in Campbell, Boone and Kenton counties. All you have to do is show the participating business your Library Card to receive their offer.

Visit one of our branches in September and get a Campbell County Public Library Card for yourself and each family member. Keep on reading and use your Library. We're the best deal around!

Put the Lid on Lead

Does your child live in or regularly visit a home built before 1978? Does your home have mini-blinds made before 1996? Do you live near a heavily traveled highway? These are just a few of the concerns put everything into their mouths, and 3) they're closer to the ground and they play in the soil. Most often children don't have any symptoms of lead poisoning, but elevated levels of lead cause a decreased rate of growth, at ages 9 to 12 months and again at 24 months. If a young child has never had a lead blood level done, a test should be done as soon as possible before age 6. Testing is mandated for any child: 1) on Medicaid benefits, 2) spending more than 10 hours a week in a home built before 1978, and/or 3) having risk factors determined by a risk assessment questionnaire.

The Northern Kentucky Health Department provides a Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program. It promotes the Kentucky Childhood Lead Elimination Plan's goal to achieve the elimination of lead poisoning in children by 2010. Billboards encouraging lead screening, like the one pictured here, can now be found at various times and locations in Newport, Covington and Florence, Kentucky. Further information on lead may be found at the Health Department's website at www.nkyhealth.org. To request an information packet on lead, call Kim Dinsey-Read, RN at (859) 363-2063.

that might put your child at risk for lead poisoning. Northern Kentucky is considered one of the state's high risk areas for lead poisoning, especially in Kenton and Campbell counties' older neighborhoods.

The primary sources of lead are found in peeling and chipping lead-based paint, lead-contaminated dust and the soil. Even though lead-based paints were banned for use in 1978, there are still an estimated 24 million housing units in our country that still have deteriorated leaded paint and house dust.

Lead poisoning can happen to any child from any socioeconomic background. One out of every 11 children in the United States has an elevated blood lead level. A blood lead level of greater than 10 micrograms per deciliter is considered a concern, but even lower levels over a long period of time may lead to future problems. Young children are at the highest risk for lead poisoning for three primary reasons: 1) their bodies are growing and they absorb lead more easily, 2) they learning disabilities, behavioral problems, problems with attention span and hearing loss. High levels can cause seizures, coma and even death.

The good news is that lead poisoning is the most preventable environmental health threat in the United States. Testing is recommended

Kentucky's slogan is "Put the lid on lead." How?

- Get your child tested.
- Clean often with warm water and a general cleaner. Wet mop floors, vacuum furniture and wet wipe windowsills and wells every week. Wash children's hands, pacifiers and toys often. Wash hands before eating. Keep children away from peeling paint and windowsills.
- Fix healthy meals. Your child's body absorbs less lead when you serve foods high in calcium and iron, low fat dairy foods, lean meats, iron fortified cereals, and plenty of fruits and vegetables.

Senior Center News

Annual Senior Picnic

The annual Campbell County Senior Picnic will be held Wednesday, September 21 at Pendery Park in Melbourne from noon until 5 pm. This year's picnic will feature Pete Wagner's Band. Pre-sale tickets are $6 and available weekdays from 9 am-3 pm at the Campbell County Senior Center, 3504 Alexandria Pike (859) 572-4300 or at the Fiscal Court Building, 24 W.

Fourth St., Newport. Tickets will be available at the gate for $8. The picnic will offer traditional activities as well as a few new events, including "A Taste of Campbell County," featuring wines from the Campbell County Vineyard Association.

Senior Center and Wellness Center

The Campbell County Senior Center is a total wellness center for senior citizens, offering a variety of activities from cards, Bingo, dancing and a traveling band, to educational workshops and the Wellness Center. The Senior Center is open 9 am-3 pm, Monday through Friday. For more information, please call (859) 572-4300.

The Wellness Center, opened in January 2005, includes strength training equipment, cardio respiratory fitness equipment, and educational programs and activities. The Wellness Center is open from 9 am-2 pm, Monday through Friday. Membership is open to those 60 years of age and older. For information, call (859)547-3665.

Historical and Genealogical Society

Welcome to summer! The Campbell County Historical Society has been hard at work preserving Campbell County's history and researching its genealogy. We have expanded our hours to include: Thursday from noon-4 pm. Additionally, the Historical Society is open Tuesday from noon-8 pm and Saturday from 10 am -3 pm. The Historical Society requests that visitors call (859)635-6407 before visiting so that it can best meet each individual's needs.

The Historical Society hosted several events during 2005, including a discussion about growing up in Russia, a tour of the historic Taylor Mansion in Newport, and a lecture on using DNA as a tool in tracing family history and genealogy. In addition, the Historical Society was interviewed by KET for an upcoming special on Northern Kentucky.

The Historical Society named Marian Jean Romo as its Volunteer of the Year this spring. Ms. Romo, a retired high school teacher, has single-handedly assembled a collection of over 5,000 Campbell County veteran information forms. Ms. Romo's work distinguished Campbell County as one of Kentucky's counties with the best veteran records.

Future plans for the Historical Society include a visit and tour of the Wiedemann Mansion in Newport and a stone house in Camp Springs in the fall. Plans are also currently underway for a joint meeting with the Kenton County Historical Society later this year.

2005 membership stands at over 260 members. The Historical Society is always interested in adding to its membership and collections. The Historical Society is also striving to raise funds to establish an endowment fund for the organization's future needs. Funds of land and/or buildings, which could be sold, are requested. For more information about membership or contributions, please contact the Historical Society at (859) 635-6407.

Solid Waste Cleanup

Fall Cleanup Event: October 21-23

Campbell County's Fall 2005 Litter Abatement and Cleanup will be held on October 21, 22, and 23 from 8 am - 6 pm. Litter and general debris will be accepted at three locations: the Campbell County Police Station off U.S. 27, Pendery Park off Route 8 in Melbourne, and the Campbell County Transportation Center on Racetrack Road in Alexandria. Liquids will not be accepted at any site!

The Campbell County Police Station and Pendery Park locations will only accept litter and general debris that may have accumulated over the year in your house, barn or garage. The Campbell County Transportation Center will not only accept litter and general debris, but also scrap metal, appliances (including those with Freon), car batteries, tires (limited to four per vehicle), and empty propane tanks with the valves removed.

The Road Department will try to accommodate any citizen who needs to drop off items prior to the cleanup dates. For information on this process or with any other questions, please contact Reno Deaton at (859) 441-5166 or rdeaton@campbellcountky.org.

The Fiscal Court would like to extend a special thanks to Solid Waste Coordinator Reno Deaton and all volunteers for making the Spring Cleanup event such a huge success.

Emergency Management

"Storm Ready" Designation

This summer, Campbell County became the seventeenth Kentucky county to earn the National Weather Service's "Storm Ready" designation. The Storm Ready program was established by the National Weather Service in 1999 to help American communities prepare for thunderstorms, tornadoes, floods and hurricanes. The program seeks to improve communication and safety skills in local communities so that officials can best respond when dangerous situations occur. Planning, education, and awareness are key components of the Storm Ready program's curriculum and ongoing efforts.

Locally, the Campbell County Office of Emergency Management undertook the task of ensuring Campbell County was Storm Ready. Over the past four years, Campbell County has trained severe weather spotters and created a spotter network, completed a county-wide severe weather siren system, encouraged the use of weather radios in businesses, schools, public assembly areas and homes, and has provided information to the public through several forums and various programs. Together, these advances in severe weather preparedness have allowed the county to earn the Storm Ready designation.

Warning System Expanded

The Office of Emergency Management is currently expanding the outdoor warning system to include a new siren in Wilder at the AA/1-275 junction. The addition of this siren will bring the total number of sirens in Campbell County to 20. The Wilder siren has been added to accommodate coverage to the area which has developed since Campbell County's original warning plan was formulated. This addition was made possible through a grant from the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Kentucky Mitigation Office with support from the Campbell County Fiscal Court and the city of Wilder.

New Device Activated

Additionally, the Office of Emergency Management has activated the "Communicator." The Communicator will enable citizens to be quickly advised of an emergency and what action they should take to protect themselves. The device can also be used to notify the public of road closures and public safety issues and to alert other county emergency agencies for response. The installation of the "Communicator" was made possible through a Homeland Security Grant.

Hayden Appointed Commissioner

On May 23, Governor Ernie Fletcher appointed Wilder resident Mark T. Hayden to fill the unexpired term of Commissioner William J. Verst. Governor Fletcher stated, "Mark Hayden has devoted his professional career and his personal life to serving others. I have no doubt that he will be a respected and dedicated member of the Campbell County Fiscal Court." Commissioner Hayden is a seventh-generation

Kentuckian, is currently a partner with Greenebaum Doll & McDonald law firm, and has practiced law in Kentucky since 1986. Commissioner Hayden is a commissioned Catholic Lay Pastoral Minister and has served as President of the Parish Council at St. Joseph's Church in Cold Spring. Commissioner Hayden, his wife Denise, and their three sons live in Wilder.

Saying Goodbye to a Friend

was a public servant in the truest sense of the word. Commissioner Verst demonstrated an unwavering dedication to the citizens of Campbell County, and he served as an inspiration to his peers and to the citizens for his endless and tireless commitment to his service.

Just 49 years-old at the time of his passing, Commissioner Verst has left his legacy on Campbell County, as one newspaper article noted on the passing of Commissioner Verst, "Official's Death a Loss for the Region." The Campbell County Fiscal Court passed a resolution expressing its deepest respect and admiration for Commissioner Bill Verst at a special meeting on May 9, 2005. To read the resolution and articles written about Commissioner Verst's life, please visit www.campbellcountky.org and link to the special tribute to Commissioner Verst under "News Center."

On April 26, 2005, Campbell County lost a devoted public official and a dear friend. Commissioner William Verst honorably and ably served the citizens of Campbell County for a generation as a Wilder City Councilman, a Wilder Planning and Zoning Commission Member, and 16 years as a Campbell County Commissioner. During his service as a County Commissioner, Commissioner Verst assumed fundamental and integral roles in the development of several Campbell County initiatives and

Campbell County Police Department

Campbell County Police Awarded Accreditation Certification

The Campbell County Police Department fulfilled all accreditation standards as established by the Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police and was awarded its second five-year accreditation certification. The department was first accredited in 2000. The accreditation signifies that the Campbell County Police Department is one of a select group in Kentucky that meets or exceeds a specific set of standards in police work. There are over 157 standards in which the department had to demonstrate proficiency in order to earn accreditation. The Campbell County Police Department examined all aspects of its operation and met commonly accepted professional standards. The department was then measured against an established set of standards and met or exceeded those professionally accepted practices in law enforcement.

Officers Receive Recognition

Several police officers were recently promoted:

- Lieutenant Colonel Todd Straman was recently appointed as Assistant Chief of Police.
- Barrett J. Champagne was promoted to Lieutenant.
- Ronald Ratliff was promoted to Sergeant.

Roadway Safety

Campbell County Parks offer people in the community recreational areas for their enjoyment. During the summer and fall season, the use of facilities increases, also increasing the amount of vehicles traveling on rural roadways. The Campbell County Police Department reminds those traveling on county roadways to obey the speed limit and traffic laws and to always wear a seat belt. Unless otherwise posted, the speed limit is 35 mph. The majority of roadways in Campbell County are not as wide as state or city roads and contain many hills and curves where visibility is limited. Motorists are reminded to stay on the appropriate side of the road, especially at turns, stop if necessary to let someone pass in the opposite direction, and remain alert of the surrounding area. Motorcycle traffic also increases during the summer and fall season. Lastly, please be aware of animals that may be on the road.

Unless otherwise posted, the speed limit on Campbell County roads is 35 MPH.

Economic Progress

The Campbell County Industrial Authority Inc. has been re-organized under the Campbell County Economic Progress Authority Inc., with Henry "Bud" Pogue IV as its Chairman. The Economic Progress Authority was created to aid in the acquisition, retention and development of land for economic development purposes in Campbell County and to aid in the development and promotion of policies that meet economic development needs in Campbell County.

Looking to the future, one of Campbell County's assets will be to leverage the assets of Northern Kentucky University to attract successful knowledge-based economy businesses to the area. These companies are, and will be for the foreseeable future, the fastest growing business segment in the country. These companies provide higher salaries, and most importantly, these types of developments actually complement residential communities. The other members of the board include Elmer Haas, Don Johnson, Joe Kramer, Fred Macke, Clarence Martin, Larry Schreiber, and Joseph Wind. The board members are appointed by the Campbell County Fiscal Court to four-year terms. For more information on the Economic Progress Authority, please visit www.campbellcountky.org.

Comprehensive Plan Update

Beginning this fall, Campbell County will begin updating its comprehensive plan. The comprehensive plan serves as a guide for public and private actions and decisions to ensure that the development of public and private property occurs in the most appropriate and beneficial relationships. The comprehensive plan identifies the County's vision for the future and helps chart the course to work toward that future. It is the responsibility of the Planning Commission to prepare a comprehensive plan.

The Campbell County and Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission (CC&MP&ZC) is a joint planning unit. The jurisdiction of CC&MP&ZC includes unincorporated Campbell County and the cities of Crestview, Melbourne, Silver Grove, Southgate and Woodlawn. While the primary focus of the updated Comprehensive Plan will be on these six jurisdictional areas, equal consideration for the future growth and development of the remaining nine cities within the county will also be taken into account.

The update of the Comprehensive Plan occurs during a critical point and limited window of opportunity for shaping the future of Campbell County. Two major capital improvements are currently underway: the realignment/expansion of portions of US 27 and the construction of a new regional wastewater treatment facility. These major projects plus emerging market forces suggest that Campbell County is about to experience major changes. We are looking to prepare a comprehensive plan that will help guide these forces to fulfill our future vision of a vibrant community.

Public participation will be a key element in the update of our Comprehensive Plan. There will be several workshops and public meetings to gather your input about the future of our county. If you would like to learn more about the Comprehensive Plan update, please contact the Planning & Zoning Department at 292-3880 or visit our website at www.campbellcountky.org.

Greetings From the Campbell County Property Valuation Administrator

The State Legislature passed tax reform legislation that takes effect January 2006. This new legislation eliminated the Intangible Personal Property tax. This is the tax on stocks, bonds, accounts receivables, mutual funds, retirement funds, and other similar accounts. Effective January 1, 2006, individuals and businesses will no longer need to file the Intangible Personal Property Tax Return with the PVA office. The Tangible Personal Property Tax Return must still be filed as in previous years. If you have any questions regarding the elimination of the Intangible Tax, please contact the PVA office.

Tax Bill Time

Tax bill time in Campbell County is fast approaching. The tax bills will be mailed by the Campbell County Sheriff's office at the end of October. If you do not receive a tax bill by the end of the first week of November, please contact the Sheriff's office to request a duplicate bill be sent. The county tax bills will be mailed to the current owner of the property at the time of printing. If you have questions about your city tax bill, please contact your city office. If you receive a tax bill on a property which you have recently sold, please forward the tax bill to the new owner. Once again, the tax bills will be mailed to the homeowners and not the homeowner's escrow company. If your taxes are paid through an escrow company, please forward your tax bill to the company. If your address has been changed due to the county's readdressing, the tax bill will be mailed to the new address.

If you do not receive a tax bill by the end of the first week of November, please contact the Sheriff's office to request a duplicate bill be sent.

If you have any questions or problems concerning your assessment, your address, or any exemptions on your tax bills, please contact my office.

Don't forget to visit our website at www.campbellpva.com.

Homestead/Disability Exemptions

Property owners 65 years of age or older who own, maintain and reside at the property qualify for the Homestead Exemption. If you meet these requirements, please come to the office to apply. If you are currently receiving this exemption, you do not have to apply annually. To receive the disability exemption, you must own and occupy your home, be totally disabled, and apply annually. If you qualify, please stop by the PVA office and complete the necessary exemption form.

Northern Kentucky Area Planning Commission

LINK-GIS Takes Residents on an Aerial Tour

Governments, businesses and residents of Campbell County will soon have access to more than 320 square miles of color digital aerial photography via www.linkgis.org, thanks to LINK-GIS, Northern Kentucky's leading geographic information systems provider. The project catalogs 110,721 buildings, 1,466 miles of road, and more than 207,000 acres in Northern Kentucky.

The photographs were shot at a 1" = 100' scale (one inch on the map equals 100 feet on the earth) in the more dense areas and a 1" = 200' scale for rural areas. This close-up view will give potential homebuyers a birds-eye tour of neighborhoods, or allow planners to view multiple aspects of a proposed development to weigh the impact on the community, or even take an inventory of sidewalks.

The Northern Kentucky Health District did just that. Using the ortho-photography, they were able create a "walkability" study that showed the areas that had pedestrian friendly sidewalks to help promote a more healthy lifestyle. In addition, Sanitation District No. 1 will be using the data to create highly detailed maps of current storm water and sewer lines for continuous plan upgrades.

"The applications of the orthophotography are limitless," stated Trisha Brush, Deputy Director for GIS Administration, a department of Northern Kentucky Area Planning Commission. "The new photographs, when combined with existing data, will allow us to create three-dimensional maps that can be scaled, rotated, and expanded. This is useful for planning, development, and marketing our community."

For example, first responders to accidents, Emergency Medical Services,

Fire Departments, and Police can pinpoint exactly where to block traffic, where hydrants are located and where to park emergency vehicles. Also, they will know how long it will take for specialized help to arrive when dealing with larger and more complicated outbreaks, such as chemical fires. Having the latest information available is critical to improving response times.

Police departments have created detailed beat maps to show police officers where alleys, fences and dead ends are, to help in pursuit of suspects. These maps help detail crime "hotspots" to reinforce proactive policing measures.

Public works departments could perform pre-project field visits from within the office without driving out to locations. Engineers can use maps to decide where to put new storm drains, manholes and roads. Planners will be able to locate vacant lots, dilapidated hillsides and abandoned buildings for new construction or improvement.

District Finance Head to Retire

Ron Barrow

Barrow, who began his career with the District when it was known as the Campbell County Water District, currently oversees the financial, general legal and administrative areas of NKWD.

Although retiring from NKWD, Barrow will continue his involvement with the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, where he is chairman of the monthly "Eggs & Issues" program. Barrow also is an adjunct professor in the Public Administration Department of Northern Kentucky University, his alma mater.

Barrow says he is retiring to spend more time with his wife, son and daughter and to have time to try new things.

Ron Barrow, 53, who has served the NKWD for more than 30 years — most recently as vice president of Finance — is retiring later this year.

Upcoming Water District Projects

NKWD is working on designs for the following water main replacement projects:

■ City of Bellevue

Construction of an eight-inch water main replacement project along Ross, Taylor and Eden avenues in the city of Bellevue. This project is expected to start this summer.

■ New Richmond Road

Construction of an eight-inch water main along New Richmond Road, from the existing three-inch water main on New Richmond to Route 8, to replace a three-inch cross-country water main. This project is expected to start this summer.

■ Camp Springs

Construction of a 12-inch water main replacement for Poplar Ridge, Four Mile Pike and Nelson Road in Camp Springs. Construction is expected later this summer.

■ N. Fort Thomas Ave.

Replacement of a 12-inch water main along North Fort Thomas Avenue, between Memorial Parkway and the Avenue of Champions in the city of Fort Thomas. Construction is expected to start this summer.

■ Maine Avenue

Replacement of an eight-inch water main along Maine Avenue, starting at Taylor Mill Road and ending at Wilson Road and Ridge Way in the city of Fort Thomas. Construction is expected to start this summer.

Employee Spotlight: Kim Vo

Kim Vo, 43, is an Inorganic Chemist at the Northern Kentucky Water District. In that position, she is responsible for providing water quality assurance in both source and treated waters, and for ensuring that NKWD water meets federal and state regulations.

Kim was born in Saigon, South Vietnam and immigrated to Cincinnati with her parents in 1980, when Kim was just 18 years old. She attended Wyoming High School and has a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the University of Cincinnati. Kim began her career with NKWD in 1999. Prior to that, she was a lab technician at Procter & Gamble.

Kim is a member of the American Water Works Association (AWWA) and the Kentucky Water and Wastewater Operators Association (KWWOA). She resides in West Chester, Ohio with her husband Lan and their three children. Kim says she enjoys attending her children's sporting events.

St. Luke Regional Vascular Institute Leads the Way

Some of the most advanced procedures in the nation are performed in the endovascular suite at the St. Luke Regional Vascular Institute.

The first center of its kind in Northern Kentucky, the St. Luke Regional Vascular Institute offers highly skilled, experienced care in the diagnosis and treatment of vascular diseases. Some of the most advanced procedures in the nation are performed in the state-of-the-art endovascular suite at the St. Luke Regional Vascular Institute.

What Is Vascular Disease?

The body's vascular system includes the veins and arteries that carry blood throughout the body. Vascular diseases can clog, narrow or weaken these vessels, which can lead to stroke, amputation or even death.

How Is It Treated?

Vascular disease can be treated by modifying health habits and/or surgical and minimally-invasive endovascular procedures. Using a multidisciplinary approach to care, the St. Luke Regional Vascular Institute incorporates the expertise of physicians, registered nurses and clinical and technical staff to develop the most effective treatment plan for each patient.

How Do I Know if I Have Vascular Disease?

Early diagnosis and prevention can save limbs and lives. The St. Luke Regional Vascular Institute has provided the assessment on this page to determine if you are at risk. They also provide community screenings and outreach services throughout the region.

Please call the St. Luke Regional Vascular Institute at (859) 962-4888 for more information.

Vascular Disease Can Kill. Are You at Risk?

Vascular Disease Risk Assessment
